

ENNA Congress, 2nd-3rd September 2011

Sepideh Olausson

RN, MSC, PhD student, Institute of Health Science, University College of Borås, Sweden

Curriculum Vitae

Sepideh Olausson, became a registered nurse in the beginning of 90th with a bachelor in Caring Science and worked within the field of acute care until 2001. She continued her education with a degree in Intensive and Critical Care Nursing. She moved on to work at University of Borås 2004 as the head of intensive and critical nursing program until 2007. She teaches and supervises students on bachelor and master level in scientific methods and in various nursing topics. She is involved in two international studies Drama-Learning Across Borders (D-lab) and Professional self concept (ProSeCon). Moreover she is involved in an intervention project aiming at integrating evidence based design in an intensive care unit. Her PhD project concerns how patients and next-of-kin experience the ICU patient room. She has presented her work and research both domestically and internationally in Canada, Germany, Denmark and Great Britten.